

Cat's Grace

The following is the information concerning this organic plant:

Appearance

% chance to locate per 24 hours:	40%
of checks per 24 hours:	3
Classification:	Plant.
Color:	The leaves at the base of the plant are a dark-green. The bells that sprout up from the center of the plant are slightly greener than its leaves. The slender hairs that grow out from the bells are yellowish-clear. These hairs are called cat's gut.
Location:	Caves. Cat's Grace will naturally grow at the mouth of caves, so as to absorb sunlight only part of the day. Direct sunlight would otherwise kill this plant.
Maturity:	1 moon (30 days). Cat's gut fibers grow out from each bell, but will only appear after Cat's Grace has fully matured.
Regional habitation:	Jungle.
Smell:	As the common green of the jungle. However, cat's gut fibers have a very different scent, in that they smell similar to actual dried cat gut.
Uses found:	1-D6 +2 cat's gut fibers will grow from each of the three shoots.
Value per use:	1 silver piece per 12" strand of slender hair.
Taste:	Leaves: bitter. Bells: Rose petals. Cat's gut: Honey Suckle.
Texture:	Leaves: smooth and firm. Bells: Thick like a prickly pear cactus green. Cat's gut: Silken, yet thick and somewhat firm.

Explanation

This plant grows upon the surface of the jungle, and is sought after by medics, and those who practice the healing arts. The 12" cat's gut fibers that grow from each bell can be plucked and used to sew up open wounds.

Area of influence:	Not applicable.
Damage:	Not applicable.
Duration of effects:	Cat's gut will last approximately 1 Fortnight (14 days) before dissolving and falling out from the stitched up wound.
Effect time:	Not applicable.
Effects:	Used to stitch up open wounds. See: "Healing".
Healing:	A wound stitched up with cat's gut will heal at x2 the normal rate. Note: Only fresh cat's gut can accelerate healing a wound. After plucking a strand of cat's gut, it must be used within 5 minutes (60 turns) to gain the benefit of accelerated healing. Cat's gut can be collected and saved for later use, but without the benefit of speeding the healing of a wound.
Immunities:	Creatures with no blood-points cannot benefit from this plant's accelerated healing properties.
Maximum adjustments:	Not applicable.
Overdose symptoms:	Not applicable.
Range of influence:	One wound per cat's gut.
Resting time:	Not applicable.
Side effects:	None.
Used for:	Stitching wounds. See: "Healing".

Preparation

Merely pluck one strand of cat's gut and use it to stitch up one wound.

Avoidance-roll:

Not applicable.

Measurement per use:

One 12" strand of cat's gut.