

This "misplaced" journal has vital information within its few pages that directly concern a raid against the nearest civilization from where you are. Apparently, this attack will commence in seven days (at the stroke of midnight). No doubt, the authorities would be very interested in getting hold of this information.