

Ring, Transformation:

This ring will allow you to become any object you see, whether it be coin, a torch, or any other inanimate object. While in this state, foes and others will not be able to detect your true nature easily. Only an ability or spell that specifically states you can detect the true nature of what something really is can see through such a disguise. While changed, you can see and hear what is transpiring. If you change out of transformation and attack, roll initiative with the foe you will face. If you win initiative, you will surprise your foe, gaining the first 3 turns to attack, subdue, etc. A surprised creature will only have a 7 Defense, and a -7 to defend until the 4th turn.